Abstract (en)

[origin: EP3995186A1] A system for providing a play method having high odds under baccarat rules. The system comprises a betting table (30), a dealing element (40), a payout element (50), and a control element (60). The control element (60) first determines whether betting information of a player satisfies a starting condition, if so, the control element (60) further determines whether a game outcome satisfies an additional payout condition, and if the game outcome satisfies the additional payout condition, the payout element (50) additionally calculates and generates an additional payout score. In this way, the present system uses an existing betting zone to provide a player with a playing method having high odds, so as to meet the player's demand for excitement.
