Abstract (en)
[origin: EP4019419A1] The disclosed systems and methods relate to improved cases for securely storing and shipping products. A case can include a back panel, an upper foldable section, and a lower foldable section. The features of the case can be manufactured on a single sheet of material. The lower foldable section includes panels having apertures for holding the bottom of a product. The systems include a lower insert to further protect a bottom of the product.
