Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2021081094A1] A method is disclosed. The method may include, while the patient uses the treatment apparatus, controlling, based on a treatment plan for a patient, a treatment apparatus. The method may include receiving, by a processing device, data from an electronic device, wherein the data comprises a measurement pertaining to performance of a treatment plan by a patient using a treatment apparatus, a characteristic pertaining to the patient, or both. The method may include storing, via the processing device, the data for the patient in a computer-readable medium. The method may include using a privacy-enhancing technology (PET) engine to control access to personally identifiable information (PII) associated with the patient.
