Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2022109847A1] Methods, systems, and apparatus, including computer programs encoded on computer storage media, for maintaining data in a blockchain-based trusted system. One of the methods includes receiving data by a service computer system from a client device. The service computer system sends the data to a blockchain-based trusted system. A credential corresponding to the data is received by the service computer system from the blockchain-based trusted system. The service computer system sends the credential to the client device.
