Abstract (en)
A putty knife (1) including a metal blade (2) and a handle (3) placed inside a connector (4), wherein the connector (4) is an angle-adjusted, removable connection between the handle (3) and the fixing profile, in which the working blade (2) is placed. The connector (4) includes a support (6) connected with the flat fixing profile (5) for the blade (2) using connecting elements (8) provided as bolts with butterfly nuts, and in addition, the connector (4) has a socket (9.1) with an opening (10) for the connecting element (11) connecting the connector (4) and the handle (3). The support (6) is flat in the area where the fixing profile (5) of the blade (2) is fixed. The handle (3) is provided at the end with a socket (9.2) cooperating with the socket (9.2) of the connector (4) using a connecting element (11). The sockets (9.1, 9.2) include complementary radial protrusions (12) with a triangular cross-section at cooperating contact surfaces. The support (6) is provided with stiffening elements in the form of ribs (7) and an aperture (13) for insertion of the fixing profile (5). The fixing profile (5) for the blade (2) and the connector (4) include at least two cooperating openings (14) each.
