Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2021213876A1] The invention relates to an adapter (30) for connection to a spray can (20) dispensing an oil-containing aerosol. The adapter (30) comprises a timepiece (11) configured to measure a predetermined time interval, the starting point of the time measurement being defined by the start of a spraying process of the spray can (20); and an indicating element (12, 13) configured to indicate to the user, once the predetermined time interval has expired, to end the spraying process. The invention further relates to a method for manually processing a medical device (40).
