Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2021239625A1] The invention relates to a method for strapping a group (10) of packages (11), in particular for products of the cigarette industry, with a packaging material strap (12). The packages (11) are assembled in order to form a cube-shaped group (10) and are then strapped with at least one packaging material strap (12). The invention is characterized in that the at least one packaging material strap (12) is provided with a preferably continuous layer of adhesive on one face, and the group (10) of packages (11) is completely strapped with the at least one packaging material strap (12), wherein the layer of adhesive is brought into direct contact with the packages (11) of the group (10).
