Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2022043360A1] The invention relates to language teaching means for presenting a language and for teaching the grammatical rules, the vocabulary (lexis), and the orthographically correct spelling of a language by correctly matching blocks. The novel language teaching means comprises base blocks with an inscription and additional auxiliary blocks. The base blocks are arranged next to one another on a plane in order to construct sentences, and the inscriptions thereof on the front face display a word, a morpheme, or a punctuation mark. The auxiliary blocks are arranged on another plane, i.e. above or below the base blocks, if necessary. The color and shape of the blocks are important recognition features of individual grammatical phenomena (Fig. 16b).
