Abstract (en)
[origin: US2022138401A1] A method of presenting content is provided. The method includes receiving a request to access first content. The request is received via a first browser. The request includes a first uniform resource identifier. The method also includes obtaining a set of rules. The set of rules indicate how the first content is presented. The method further includes determining whether the request to access the first content satisfies one or more rules of the set of rules based on the first uniform resource identifier. The method further includes presenting the first content based on the one or more rules in response to determining that the request to access the first content satisfies the one or more rules.
