Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2023279172A1] A method for combining scleral and corneal topography data is disclosed. The method comprises registering the scleral data and the corneal data using corneal height data and one or more corneal reference comprised in the corneal data and using a scleral registration reference comprised in the scleral data. Also disclosed is a device, ophthalmological topographer and system for obtaining combined scleral and corneal topography data. The registration may use a coordinate system.
