(54)

Adjustable pattern for cutting of collars for articles of clothing particularly shirts, blouses and the like.

(57)

A pattern for the making collar elements for articles of clothing of different sizes, in which each collar element comprises two shaped end parts and a central part extending so as to connect the end parts, comprises:

-two end forms (2), each of which has a profile reproducing the shape of a respective end part of the collar element, and

-a central body (3) to which the two end forms (2) can be attached selectively in generally symmetrical positions relative to each other and in an arrangement such that the two end forms (2) are selectively slidable towards and away from each other for their adaptation to different collar sizes.
