(54) Integrated playground

(57) In order to be able to offer handicapped children the possibility of playing in a playground, the playground according to the invention is composed of a collection of playground equipment which is placed with a drive-ramp between the individual items of equipment and provided with inclined approach ramps.

Furthermore, there are holding means and shields at the sides of the drive-ramps, so that the children can more easily move between the items of playground equipment.
