(54) Template particularly for installing radiating panels and for testing the associated heating systems

(57) A template, particularly for installing radiating panels and for testing the associated heating systems, comprising a first portion (11) which is suitable to be rested against a wall and a second portion (12) which cantilevers out from the first portion (11), with which an internally hollow slider (22) is slidingly associated; the slider (22) is provided with fittings (26,27) which can be connected to infeed/discharge connectors of a heating system. The fittings are directly interconnected in order to allow a bypass flow of the water supplied by the heating system.
