(54) A laid monolithic ceiling out of cement reinforced concrete and the relative process for realizing the same

(57) A laid monolithic ceiling out of cement reinforced concrete comprising extrados beams (2) that cooperate like a monolith with a cast slab (1) in which they are partially inserted. The realization process of said laid comprises the following phases:

- the building of at least two carrying pillars;
- the realization of an intrados formwork supported by props;

- the formation of the iron reinforcing of the slab and of the extrados beams;
- the filling of the formworks with cement for the cast of the slab and of the portion of the extrados beams inserted into said slab;
- the realization of the formwork projecting from the extrados of the slab for the finishing cast of the extrados beams.
