(54) Dimmer light utilizing light-emitting disk

(57) The present invention relates to a dimmer light for use with a light-emitting disk. The present invention not only has the same function with prior art dimmer lights, but also makes a convenience for users to collect and store light-emitting disks. Besides, the present invention increases functions of dimmer lights through developments of the light-emitting disk lighting partially, intermittently, or with different colors. The light-emitting disk and the dimmer light can be further grouped into a special modeling, such as a clock design. Furthermore, the present invention can increase other functions, such as a perfume box, to attract customers' interest and purchasing desire.
