(54) Document-Management system and its control method

(57) A document-management apparatus includes a displaying unit which displays both document information managed by a document-management server and image-forming-job information managed by an image-forming-job management server on an operation screen. A first unit performs an image-forming preparation of a specific document contained in the document information according to a transfer request inputted on the operation screen to transfer the specific document from the document-management server to the image-forming-job management server. A second unit outputs a specific image-forming job contained in the image-forming-job information, from the image-forming-job management server to an image-forming device according to an image-forming request inputted on the operation screen with respect to the specific image-forming job.
