(54) Collapsible shower booth

(57) A collapsible shower booth (1) comprises a frame provided with at least an anchoring element for a shower curtain (3). The frame is able to rotate about an axis mountable horizontally on an equipped vertical wall (4), and it can be moved between an operating position, in which the frame itself projects in overhang from the equipped vertical wall (4), with the curtain (3) hanging from the anchoring element, and a resting position, in which the frame is positioned parallel to the equipped vertical wall (4), with the curtain (3) folded against the anchoring element. The shower booth (1) further comprises a collapsible shower plate (16), for collecting the water used during a shower and for conveying said water to a drain (26a). The shower plate (16) is able to rotate about an axis (Y) positioned horizontally relative to the wall (4) and comprises means for moving the shower plate (16) between an operating position, in which it is positioned horizontally, and a resting position, in which it is parallel to the vertical wall.
