(54) Improved media transport cassette

(57) A method of transporting bank notes between a cassette loading center and one of a plurality of automated teller machines (ATMs) is disclosed. The method utilizes a transport cassette for valuable media, comprising a sealable security housing for storing the media, a control processor and at least one display for displaying active information representative of the media within the cassette housing. The method comprises updating the cassette display each time a bank note is removed from the cassette housing.
