(54) Concrete form assembly for square columns, and locating template for use therewith

(57) A locating template (130) for a non-round concrete form (100) of the type having a round outer tube (110) and an insert assembly (120) installed in the outer tube for defining the desired non-round shape. The locating template (130) can be fit into the end of the channel defined by the insert assembly (120). The locating template (130) has a crosshair (20) or series of marks (112) indicating the center of the locating template (130), which corresponds to the center of the channel defined by the insert assembly (120). The contractor simply marks the outer surface of the outer tube (110) at two or more locations aligned with the crosshair (20) or marks (112) on the locating template (130). The locating template (130) is removed, and the form is set up on the ground with the marks (112) on the outer tube (110) aligned with the crosshair on the ground. The column can then be poured in the usual manner.
