(57) A sign is provided for affixing to a post having a pair of parallel, spaced members interconnected by interconnecting elements. The sign has a message-carrying member with a surface suitable for carrying a message, and a pair of stabilising members extends from the message-carrying member and is spaced apart so as to define a space between the stabilising members for accommodating the pair of walls of the post between the stabilising members. The sign has an intermediate member between the pair of stabilising members and is arranged to rest on an interconnecting element of the post when the post is accommodated between the stabilising members.
